

A&EB

Anna & Eugeni Bach is a Finnish-Spanish team based in Barcelona that works within a broad concept of architecture. Their interests spread across four activities: Professional, through public and private projects carried out in their studio Anna & Eugeni Bach / Bach Arquitectes; Teaching, as associated professors in ETSAB UPC, ETSALS URL and EINA UAB, and via lectures and workshops in many European universities; Research, as PhD Candidates at the university and via projects and installations that deal with the perception of space; and Culture, being active on the boards of different associations that promote the values of architecture for society, as well as curating exhibitions and lecture series and coediting the magazine-fanzine Aproximacions.

Their work has been exhibited in the Spanish Pavilion at the Venice Biennale 2016 (Golden Lion), at Export, Museo ICO, Madrid 2015; "Elective Affinities", a solo exhibition on their work at the Colegio de Arquitectos de Barcelona, 2015 and Girona 2014; BAND, Wyższa Szkoła Techniczna, Katowice, Poland, 2014; Galery Architektury, Brno and Kabinet Architektury, Ostrava, Czech Republic, 2014; "Aproximacions", COAC Barcelona, 2012; "Architecture Catalane 2004-2009 Portrait d'époque" at Cité de l'Architecture et du Patrimoine, Paris 2009; Spanish Pavilion at the Venice Biennale 2000; Bo01 Parasite – The City of Small Things Kobenhavn, Rotterdam, Oslo, London 1999, HiCat, Barcelona Museum of Contemporary Art, 1999, or Eme3 Centro de Cultura Contemporánea de Barcelona, 1999; and their projects have been published in many national and international magazines such as Domus, MARK Magazine, Arquitectura Viva, Interni, A10 and Quaderns, among others.
