Portas do Mar - Public Space and Car Parking

Project by Carrilho da Graça, arquitectos

Decode the meanings and chronological density of the Campo das Cebolas renovation with the office Carrilho da Graça.

A visit through the transformations and existing traces in Campo das Cebolas. Public spaces look like voids, but they are full of meanings, even if they are composed of subtle gestures like this one. The architects will help to understand the project options and consequences, and to decode the complementarity of the different riverfront areas, from the Cruise Terminal to the symbolical Terreiro do Paço. Beneath the apparent surface, another layer will be unveiled: a car park that can be something else due to its excellent scenographic features emphasised by archaeological findings. And a bit of the future will also unfold, as the visit will extend to the ongoing works at Doca da Marinha.
