Neustift im Stubaital, Austria

“School of Tomorrow” - with this requirement an international competition was launched. In 2019 the answer to this socially relevant question was completed in Neustift im Stubaital. Understanding schools as a basic principle of social coherence was of fundamental importance to those in charge. The realization of a future-oriented educational building was perceived and carried out as a joint task by all participants, the clients, the users and the architects.
