

RULES OF THE CALL FOR APPLICATIONS FOR THE lilly reich GRANTS FOR EQUALITY IN ARCHITECTURE

3rd Edition

8 March 2022

In the conception and development of its activities, the Fundació Mies van der Rohe aims to generate research and debate about modern and contemporary architecture in a manner that is open to paradigm changes, and particularly in relation to concepts which are fundamental today such as identity, social inclusion and all elements of sustainability.

In recognition of the architectural legacy of Lilly Reich, the artistic partner of Ludwig Mies van der Rohe in the conception and execution of the German Pavilion of Barcelona in 1929, relegated to a second place, if not non-existent, in the story and memory of this masterpiece in the history of architecture, the Fundació Mies van der Rohe established the Lilly Reich Grant for equality in architecture in 2018, and it aims to support the study, dissemination and visibility of contributions to architecture that have been unduly relegated or forgotten, made by professionals that have received discriminatory treatment. It will also seek to promote equal access to the practice of architecture worldwide.

Since 2020 the grants incorporate a specific call for senior high school students that aims to encourage them to carry out curricular research projects focused on reverting the invisibilizations in architecture, Lilly Reich Grant for Senior High School Students Research, and reissues the call addressed to the area of high academic research, Lilly Reich Grant of academic research.

As a novelty of this 3rd edition, the modality of academic research will no longer focus exclusively on the study of the work of Lilly Reich and it is open to any proposal aimed at the study, dissemination and visibility of contributions to architecture that have been unduly relegated and forgotten, made by professionals who have received discriminatory treatment, or who seek to promote access with equal opportunities in the practice of architecture worldwide.

MODALITY A - Lilly Reich Grant for Senior High School Students Research Projects focused on the study, dissemination and visibilization of contributions to architecture that have been unduly relegated or forgotten or carried out by architectural professionals that have received discriminatory treatment, and that promote equal access to the practice of architecture worldwide.

A.1 Objective

With the calling of this grant, the Fundació Mies van der Rohe seeks to promote the research projects on topics related to the dissemination of the architectural culture in a manner that is open to the paradigms of contemporary society, carried out by Senior High School Students, to acknowledge the effort made both by the students and the teachers and to project them into their closest society.

The research projects, within any of the existing baccalaureate disciplines, will have to be focused on the study, dissemination and visibilization of contributions to modern and contemporary architecture that have been unduly relegated or forgotten, or made by professionals that have received discriminatory treatment. It will also seek to promote equal access to the practice of architecture. Those projects that consider a local perspective linked to the general context will be appreciated. Similarly, those that consider elements such as memory, testimony and conservation will also be appreciated, and very specially their ability to address young public for the dissemination and promotion of the equality of opportunities in the practice of architecture.

A.2 Payment

A maximum of 5 grants will be awarded as study aids endowed with bibliographical or educational material to a value of 300€ for each student awarded with the Grant and bibliographical or educational material to a value of 200€ for their educational centre and will include the publication of the project in its totality on the FMVDR website, upon completion and after validation by the jury that awards this grant and the evaluation panel of the research project.

The granted proposals will be co-tutored by FMVDR which will, if requested, also provide advice to the rest of the proposals, those that have not been included in the grant.

A.3 Candidacies

The call is open to senior high school students who focus their research project on the topic of the grant. The call is aimed at students about to start their curricular research project and submit it during the academic year 2022-23 (call for entries LR03/2022), as well as students who intend to begin their curricular research project during the academic year 2022-23 and submit it during the academic year 2023-24 (call for entries LR03/2023). In the case of group projects, the data of all the persons forming the group must be provided and the group must indicate the name of the person responsible for the study who will represent the team to comply with the obligations which, as a beneficiary, correspond to the group.

If the documentation presented is incorrect or incomplete, the Jury of the Lilly Reich Grant for equality in architecture shall request that the documentation be corrected or completed in a term of five working days. In the case that the deficiencies are not corrected in the period indicated, it shall be understood that the person or group renounces the Lilly Reich Grant for equality of opportunities in architecture.

B.5 Deadline for submitting the projects

The aspirants can submit their projects from 16 June until 4 September 2022 (14:00 CET).

B.6 Jury

The Jury will be formed by three individuals linked to the field of architectural research and dissemination and the research and dissemination in matters of equality, and will be made public 16 June 2022.

The Jury may request complementary information for aspirants and call them to suggest expanding or modifying the project to make it more operational.

The Jury reserves the right to declare the Lily Reich grant for equality in architecture null and void and is empowered to resolve any eventuality not expressly regulated in these terms and conditions.

B.7 Resolution

The Jury's resolution, which cannot be appealed, will be made public on 3 October 2022, World Architecture Day, through the website of the Fundació Mies van der Rohe (www.miesbcn.com)

B.8 Follow up of the activity or study

Once the Lilly Reich Grant for equality in architecture is awarded, the Jury shall supervise the selected study or activity and, if appropriate, shall nominate a person to supervise the development and inform the Foundation of the execution of the project.

Three months after the awarding of the Lilly Reich Grant for equality in architecture, the beneficiary person or group must present a report about the status of the research and the hypothetical modifications concerning the initial project which are the result of the development of the research. This report must be validated by the Jury for the second payment of the Lilly Reich Grant for equality in architecture to be made and to authorise the continuation of the research.

In the same way, the Jury shall evaluate the final work in order to give its approval to the study and to authorise the last payment of the Lilly Reich Grant for equality in architecture. The Jury is empowered to make the considerations that they deem necessary in the different phases of the follow up to the study and, if appropriate, can even revoke the awarding of the Lilly Reich Grant for equality in architecture.

B.9 Revocation of the Grant

The Jury may revoke the Lilly Reich Grant for equality in architecture if the beneficiary person or group does not execute the work in the appropriate time frame and form, if the development of the work is not satisfactory and if the result does not meet the required quality standards. Likewise, the breach of the obligations assumed by the beneficiary person or group entitles the Fundació Mies van der Rohe to require the repayment of the amounts paid.

B.10 Renunciation of the Grant

If the beneficiary person or group wishes to renounce the Lilly Reich Grant for equality in architecture during the period in which they hold the grant, they must communicate this in writing to the Fundació Mies van der Rohe. Renunciation implies the obligation to repay the amounts of the Lilly Reich Grant for equality in architecture received.

In the case of renunciation, the Jury may award the Lilly Reich Grant for equality in architecture to another one of the projects presented, and if appropriate, may extend the deadline to deliver the work.

B.11 Time frame to carry out the activity or study

The time frame to carry out the activity or study chosen starts 3 months after the date of awarding the Lilly Reich Grant for equality in architecture and finalises 9 months after initiating the work.

The activity or study must be submitted by sending the final work to lillyreich@miesbcn.com

B.12 Publication of the activity or study

The awarding of the Lilly Reich Grant for equality in architecture requires the beneficiary person or group to cede all the exploitation rights concerning the activity or study, for all modes of publication, in any format or support, including the translation into all languages, for the entire period of validity of the intellectual property rights exclusively to the Fundació Mies van der Rohe. The Fundació Mies van der Rohe may enter into agreements with third parties that are necessary to make the optimal use possible in the different modes, or to carry out the cited use directly by the foundation itself.

The scientific publications, articles or messages which may arise from the work which enjoys this grant must expressly cite the Fundació Mies van der Rohe and the fact that the work has been carried out thanks to the Lilly Reich Grant for equality of opportunities in architecture.

B.13 Data protection

The personal data provided by the applicants and collected in the documents indicated in these terms and conditions shall be incorporated in files owned by the Fundació Mies van der Rohe, with registered office at c/Provença 318 Pral. 2ª 08037, Barcelona, with the aim of being processed for the purposes for which they have been requested and to maintain the applicants informed about the activities of the Fundació Mies van der Rohe. The applicants may exercise in the terms established in the Organic Law on data protection, the rights to access, rectify, erase and object to their personal data, free of charge, by addressing a message in writing to c/Provença 318 Pral. 2ª 08037, Barcelona.

B.14 Acceptance of the terms and conditions

The presentation of a project to the Lilly Reich Grant for equality in architecture implies the acceptance of these terms and conditions, which functions as a contract.
